

“I’ve always liked this song with its dancing typewriter and happy beat. It hides the pain of the marital discord behind the lyrics.” - ND

I'M SAYIN' I'M SORRY
NEIL DIAMOND

I'm sitting up here and drinkin'
She's sittin' down there and thinkin'
Got on her tape of Evita Perona
And my Smith Corona
Keeps saying I'm sorry
I'm saying I'm sorry
And then I'm saying goodnight

She's sittin' up there and fumin'
She thinks I'm something inhuman
She'd rather be with Paul Newman
I know her
And my Smith Corona
Keeps saying I'm sorry
I'm saying I'm sorry
And then I'm saying goodnight
Good Night
Good Night

Baby, you know that I love you
All right
Gonna be alright
Let's call it a lesson we've learned

She's not an easy forgiver
Could throw myself in the river
She send me back do it once more
An encore and what's more
Use the back door

Well, I'm saying I'm sorry
I'm saying I'm sorry
And then I'm saying goodnight
Good Night
Good Night

Baby, you know that I love you
All right
Gonna be alright
Just call it a lesson we've learned

She's sitting up there and waitin'
Hey dummy quit hesitating
Take off that tape of Evita Perona
Turn off that corona
And tell her you're sorry
I'm saying I'm sorry

And then I'm saying goodnight
And then I'm saying goodnight
And then I'm saying goodnight
